Exciting Announcement!

After 35 years dedicated to the artistry and craftsmanship of jewelry making and 25 years serving his community and bringing beautiful jewelry and American crafts to Peachtree City, Robert Mucklow decided it was time to retire. He is now dedicated to enjoying time with his grandchildren and family, and traveling with his wife. Robert never imagined his one time hobby would bring him so much happiness and success, and he feels so fortunate to have made a living doing what he loved.

For Robert, the Mucklow's staff and long-time customers were family, and leaving that family in the best possible hands was a vital step to retirement. That is why he personally picked David Murray to become the new owner of Mucklow's Fine Jewelry and carry on its legacy.

For over 14 years, while David Murray served as the watchmaker for Mucklow's, he and Robert enjoyed a working relationship with mutual respect for one another's excellent craftsmanship, work ethic and values for treating all staff and customers like family. While David owned King's Watch & Jewelry repair, his passion for jewelry making grew into a dream to own a jewelry store. Through Divine orchestration, David coming to own Mucklow's was meant to be. (Hear more about that story here.) At the beginning of March 2021, Robert Mucklow passed the baton of ownership of Mucklow's Fine Jewelry to David Murray.

The Mucklow family is very thankful for the talented people that continue to make Mucklow's Fine Jewelry the wonderful place it is. From the beginning, Mucklow's Fine Jewelry was Robert's labor of love. He created a vibrant history steeped in innovative, captivating jewelry design, serving the community and showcasing artists and jewelry makers. David passionately stewards and builds upon Mucklow's legacy of authentic, genuine service and providing jewelry that celebrates life's most special moments, without harming our blue planet. You can expect all that you have come to appreciate about Mucklow's to continue including our steadfast staff. We will continue to enhance our connections in the community, our belief in family, traditions, authenticity, relationships and excellent service and craftsmanship.
